Space Humanities is a multidisciplinary platform for research in the humanities and social sciences concerning space research and space exploration, such as historical, philosophical, ethical, cultural, conceptual, political, legal, economic, and societal issues. The platform aims to initiate new research, develop international collaborations, support research proposals, and organize workshops, conferences, and summer schools.

Programme:

14:15 Space Humanities (David Dunér, History of Science and Ideas)

14:30 Philosophy of Astrobiology (Erik Persson, Practical Philosophy)

15:00 General Discussion

All interested in humanistic and societal perspectives on humans in outer space are welcome!

David Dunér & Erik Persson, coordinators
